Introduction to Your Assessment

Sample, you have undoubtedly realized that your success is determined in a very large part by how well you interact with other people. Your ability to effectively relate, communicate, influence and motivate others is a crucial skill in succeeding in your profession and creating successful, long-term relationships with customers, prospects, colleagues, subordinates, managers, friends and family members.

You have probably noticed it is very easy to get along with certain people. You almost instantly and effortlessly understand the other person. The communication just flows. It is a lot more than just mutual understanding of what is being said. It is as if the person sees you and the rest of the world in very similar terms. When it happens, everything is easier. Think about the last time it happened. Wasn't it effortless and uncomplicated?

Unfortunately, with most people interactions take more effort. They do not flow as easily. You cannot quite understand where the other person is coming from, what they really want, and what their intentions are. You may also have an uncomfortable feeling the other person is experiencing the same. You know the outcomes of the interaction are not quite what you want. You are likely to feel disappointed, frustrated and even tired. It takes energy, effort and concentration. Still, the results are not what you hoped they would be.

In these situations you probably feel there is something you could do, but are not quite sure what that is. You know your end goal – your destination – but are not sure how to get there. It is like being lost without a map.

Sample, this Extended DISC® Individual Assessment will provide you with the map to more successful interactions with others. You will learn:

- 1. The four main human behavioral styles.
- 2. Who you are and how others perceive you.
- 3. How to read other people and better understand them.
- 4. How to adjust your communication style to achieve your goals.

Very Brief Background of the Extended DISC® Model

The Extended DISC® System is based on behavioral theories that have been used for over 90 years. The power of this model is that it is easy to learn, understand, and use because it identifies only four behavioral styles of individuals.

People can be divided in four main styles by identifying if they are more:

- 1. People- or Task-oriented.
- 2. Reserved or Active.

The resulting four styles are called:

D-style (Dominance)

I-style (Influence)

S-style (Steadiness)

C-style (Conscientiousness)

The DISC Behavioral Styles - The Key points:

In the following pages you will learn about the four DISC-styles. As you get comfortable with their own unique traits and tendencies, please keep the following important points in mind:

- None of the styles are better or worse.
- All styles have strengths and development areas. They just happen to be different.
- Your style does not limit what you can accomplish or how successful we can be. It simply predicts how you tend to do things.
- You can find all of the four styles represented by very successful people. However, the most successful people know who they are. They modify their style appropriately with different styles of people and in different situations.

Your Extended DISC® Profiles

The Profiles are a visual representation of your behavioral style. They are based on your responses to the questionnaire. There are no right or wrong answers.

Profile I: Perceived Need to Adjust - Your adjusted style reflects an adjustment that you perceive would help you be successful in your current environment.

Profile II: Natural Style - Your natural style remains fairly stable, but not rigid, over your adult life. It is the style that is most comfortable to you and uses the least energy. Most individuals are a combination of styles.

The styles (D, I, S, and C) that are above the middle line (=top half of the Profile II) are your natural styles. The styles that show below the middle line means that they require more energy from you.

There are no good or bad behavioral styles - just different ones.

Your DISC Style

The DISC Model is divided into four quadrants: D, I, S and C.

The rectangle identified in color shows the location of your natural style. Determine in what quadrant it is placed. This is your most natural and comfortable behavioral style (D, I, S or C). The shadings demonstrate the behavioral styles that are quite comfortable for you.

The DISC quadrant(s) that have shading represent your DISC comfort areas or your natural style.

The DISC quadrant(s) that have no shading represent DISC styles requiring more energy from you.

Sample at a Glance

This page is a description of how others are likely to perceive you. In other words, while the text describes your typical behavior as seen by others, you certainly can modify your behavior to fit the needs of a particular situation and/or individual(s). Also, you may have already addressed the development areas by learning new skills.

How Others May Perceive You:

Modest, pleasant, steady, friendly, calm, correct, adjustable, helpful, kind, listening, follows instructions, warmhearted, detail-oriented, focused, loyal, dutiful.

How Others May Perceive Your Communication Style:

This person is usually calm and open in discussions, accepting the style of her partner easily. She does not try to lead the conversation, but listens attentively without emphasizing her opinions. She tries to avoid unpleasant topics - which may make them even more complicated.

How Others May Perceive Your Decision-making:

She is very deliberate, following instructions, looking for examples and not using her self-initiative to make decisions. She tries to take into account the interests of her supervisor, the client and all other people at the same time, which may cause her a lot of trouble.

Your Strengths

Strengths are items that tend to be easier, more natural and require less energy from you.

- Is understanding toward everyone
- Is friendly
- · Gives objective information
- Takes care of others
- Doesn't irritate others
- Masters details
- Creates trust
- · Acts as an arbitrator
- Can work in a team
- · Doesn't force anyone
- · Presents her ideas thoroughly and cheerfully
- · Follows instructions and principles

Most of us tend to overlook our strengths, even taking them for granted. Do not let that happen to you. Instead, consider the items listed above and think how well you are taking advantage of these valuable behavioral traits. Please use caution however; remember that an overused strength very often becomes a weakness and a serious liability to our performance.

How to Identify Others' Styles

Now that you have identified your own style, the next step is to identify the styles of others so that you may then make the most effective adjustments to yours. This is a skill that takes practice, but is easy to learn.

As you become more familiar with the DISC-styles, you will find some people are easy to identify. You will quickly think to yourself: "She is a D-style" or "He is an S-style." These individuals are predominantly one style and can be identified easily.

The rest of the people you encounter will take a little more effort. However, it is a simple, threestep process of identifying other's style:

Step 1. Observe

Step 2. Assess

Step 3. Recognize

Step 1: Observe

When you meet someone, pay attention to traits such as:

- what the person talks about
- how they say it type of words (e.g. "I" vs. "We"), type of questions (e.g. "what?", "why?")
- body language
- tonality

You will discover that observing behaviors will become second nature. Soon you will observe behaviors without thinking.

Sample Test

Organization: Date:

EDNA 04.23.2015

Step 2: Assess

Based on your observations, determine if the individual is more:

- Active
- Reserved

Task-orientation C D

People-orientation

Reserved

Reserved Individuals (S and C-styles):

Talk about present and past and how things are now

Speak with a calm and fairly quiet voice

Tend to have hesitant eye-contact

If the person is Reserved, they are either S-style or C-style.

If the person is Active, they are either D-style or I-style.

Active

Active Individuals (D and I-styles):

Talk about future and how things could be Speak with a fairly loud voice and inflection Demonstrate body language that is animated and assertive Maintain strong eye-contact

If the individual is Active, he/she is either D-style or I-style.

- Talk about future and how things could be
- Speak with a fairly loud voice and inflection
- Demonstrate body language that is animated and assertive
- Maintain strong eye-contact

If the individual is Reserved, he/she is either S-style or C-style.

- Talk about present and past and how things are now
- Speak with a calm and fairly guiet voice
- Demonstrate body language that is limited
- Tend to have hesitant eye-contact

D-styles

"I never worry about action, but only inaction."

- Winston Churchill

The D-style is the most aggressive and assertive of the four styles. D-styles tend to be quite competitive and results-oriented. As a result, you may identify D-styles as being quite aggressive, blunt and even rude. Under pressure they can appear to have a lack of concern for others. They do not want to lose control. D-styles want to be in charge and have the power.

D-styles prefer to move fast, take risks and get things done now. They like change and challenges. D-styles may also often want to create change.

D-styles can also be impatient and overbearing. They are often not very good listeners and are prone to make snap decisions.

Motto: I did it my way.

Focus: Actively controls tasks and things.

Under pressure - Lack of concern. This refers to D-styles' tendency to overlook how their actions and behaviors affect others.

Fear - Loss of control. This refers to D-styles' desire to be in charge. They do not want to give up control.

Favorite question: What? (What is the bottom line? What is in it for me?)

Communication Style:

- Often to only one direction he/she talks and expects others to listen
- Expresses own opinions as facts that need no further discussion
- May be blunt and challenges others
- Interrupts others often

- Make firm and clear statements
- · Demonstrate that you know what you are doing and let them decide when to focus on the details
- Be concise
- Communicate confidently and explicitly, but maintain a positive approach
- Be clear, concise and always ready to move to the next step quickly
- Emphasize the benefits they can realize
- Do not let the discussion leave them wanting more than you are able to provide

Sample, what not to do with D-style:

- Do not talk for long without checking if they want more information
- Be careful not to talk about something they are not interested in
- Do not hesitate in whatever you say or do
- Do not show uncertainty show honesty
- Do not be too modest
- Let them play with ideas but do not allow them to get side-tracked
- Do not go into too much detail too soon

I-Styles

"Why fit in when you were born to stand out?"

- Dr. Seuss

I-styles are outgoing, social, and talkative, and like to be the center of attention. They like to interact with others and meet new people. They do not like to focus on details, or spend a lot of time by themselves. Others tend to perceive I-styles as very friendly, enthusiastic and animated.

I-styles are the influencing and interactive individuals who shake up their environment by bringing others into alliance with one another. They know what they want, align everyone together to get it done, and want everyone to like them as they move forward. Social acceptance is very important for I-styles – they like to be liked.

I-styles are talkative, sociable, optimistic and lively. They are people-oriented, spontaneous, energetic and enthusiastic. I-styles tend to be positive and good at influencing others.

I-styles can also be inattentive to details, overly talkative and emotional. They may over-promise because they are so optimistic and eager to be popular. Others may perceive I-styles as somewhat careless, impulsive and lacking follow-up.

Motto: "I am a nice person. Everyone should like me."

Focus: Actively involved with people and emotions.

Under pressure - Disorganized. I-styles have a tendency to focus so much on people that they may overlook details and tasks.

Fear - Social rejection. I-styles have a strong desire to be liked by others.

Favorite question: Who? (Who is going to be at the meeting? Who else is using this?)

Communication Style:

- Selling and inspiring
- Talks a lot, but not about details
- Avoids unpleasant subjects
- Good at providing positive, constructive feedback
- Not always direct

S-Styles

"Nothing in this world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful people with talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb."

- Calvin Coolidge

S-styles are steady, calm and laid back. While they do like interaction with other people, they are more reserved and less animated than I-styles. S-styles prefer things to remain the same because changes and surprises threaten their sense of security. Family and friends tend to be very important to S-styles. They often defend their own group or team almost emotionally; fairness and justice are very important to S-styles.

S-styles are reliable and stable with an emphasis on cooperating with whoever is in charge to carry out the tasks. They say: "Tell me what, when and how you want it done and I'll be glad to do it." If you do not give me enough details, I won't get started because you might blame me if it gets done wrong."

Since S-styles prefer stability and security, they tend to resist change and need support with it. They want to know how the change will affect their lives. S-styles are also prone to be hesitant in their actions and decision-making. This is primarily caused by their desire to consider others and for everyone to get along.

Motto: If it's not broken, let's not fix it.

Focus: Involved with familiar people.

Under pressure - Too willing. S-styles' have a tendency to be accommodating and polite. Often they say "yes" too easily.

Fear - Loss of stability. S-styles have a desire to have a stable and secure environment. Change can be challenging for S-styles.

Favorite Question: How? (How are we going to do this? How does this impact us?)

Communication Style:

- Often only to one direction, he/she listens
- Answers when asked
- Talks calmly
- Creates trust
- Talks about topics he/she masters
- Better in one-to-one situations
- Good instructor

Sample, when communicating with an S-style, remember to:

- Create a clear beginning and end to every topic
- Summarize regularly what you have covered and agreed upon so far
- Establish and agree on a goal for the meeting
- Speed it up as they will not do it
- Listen and understand but then try to solve the challenges
- Always agree on the next two or three steps before moving forward
- Agree with them when it is time to take the next step

Sample, what not to do with an S-style:

- Avoid being too detailed (keeping in mind you cannot hide anything from them)
- Do not wait until they make a decision
- Do not allow them to make a decision before you know it is the one you want
- Do not feel that you have to hide something or cannot tell everything
- Do not hesitate to state your opinion
- Do not leave any open ends
- Do not overanalyze but simplify

C-Styles

"I have no special talent. I am only passionately curious."

- Albert Einstein

C-styles are the most analytical of the four behavioral styles. C-styles can be very detail-oriented, focusing on facts, information and proofs. They are comfortable working alone and are the most reserved of the four styles. C-styles are logical and methodical in their approach.

C-styles are cautious and compliant to their own high standards. Their emphasis is to work with the existing circumstances to ensure the quality of the product or service. C-styles make sure that everything works the way it should.

C-styles are sometimes too critical of others. They expect everyone to follow their standards. Their attention to detail and correctness can be perceived as nit-picky by others. C-styles' desire to do things correctly can also slow down their decision-making. They can over-analyze issues and need a lot of information.

Motto: "If we do not have time to do it right, do we have time to do it over again?" As a result, C-styles are good in ensuring quality control.

Focus: Analyzes tasks and things.

Under pressure - Overly critical. C-styles have a tendency to be so focused on the details that they often find mistakes and errors. The other styles may find C-styles too critical.

Fear - Criticism of work. C-styles want to be correct and to produce high-quality work. They do not want to make mistakes.

Favorite question: Why? (Why does is work this way? Why should we do it?)

Communication Style:

- Better in written communication
- Doesn't express disagreeing views
- Includes a lot of facts and details
- May miss the big picture
- Doesn't talk about opinions or abstract matters
- Extremely diplomatic

Sample Test

Organization: Date:

EDNA 04.23.2015

Sample, when communicating with a C-style, remember to:

- Agree on the goals for the meeting with them beforehand
- Ensure that the discussion leads to something
- Make sure you know what is, and is not, important for you to discuss with them
- Always remain a step ahead and ready for what they are going to ask for next
- Make them state what they would be happy with
- Always paint the big picture before going into the details
- Remember to summarize after each topic

Sample, what not to do with a C-style:

- Do not allow them to get side-tracked keep things as clear as possible
- Avoid falling into long discussions with them
- Do not leave decision-making up to them alone
- Do not let them control the pace
- Do not include too many aspects in one discussion or decision you expect them to make
- Do not let them control what will happen next
- Avoid any bureaucracy that would just delay the process
