Introduction to Your Leadership Assessment

Suzanne, you have undoubtedly realized that your success as a leader is determined in a very large part by how well you interact with your employees and other people. Your ability to effectively relate, communicate, influence and motivate others is a crucial skill in succeeding in your profession and creating successful, long-term relationships with subordinates, managers, customers, prospects, colleagues, friends and family members.

You have probably noticed it is very easy to get along with certain people. You almost instantly and effortlessly understand the other person. The communication just flows. It is a lot more than just mutual understanding of what is being said. It is as if the person sees you and the rest of the world in very similar terms. When it happens, everything is easier. Think about the last time it happened. Wasn't it effortless and uncomplicated?

Unfortunately, with most people interactions take more effort. They do not flow as easily. You cannot quite understand where the other person is coming from, what they really want, and what their intentions are. You may also have an uncomfortable feeling the other person is experiencing the same. You know the outcomes of the interaction are not quite what you want. You are likely to feel disappointed, frustrated and even tired. It takes energy, effort and concentration. Still, the results are not what you hoped they would be.

In these situations you probably feel there is something you could do, but are not quite sure what that is. You know your end goal – your destination – but are not sure how to get there. It is like being lost without a map.

Suzanne, this Leadership Assessment will provide you with the map to more successful interactions with others. You will learn:

- 1. The four main human behavioral styles.
- 2. Who you are and how others perceive you.
- 3. How to read other people and better understand them.
- 4. How to adjust your communication style to achieve your goals.

Very Brief Background of the Extended DISC® Model

Your Leadership Assessment is based on behavioral theories that have been used for over 90 years. The power of this model is that it is easy to learn, understand, and use because it identifies only four behavioral styles of individuals.

People can be divided in four main styles by identifying if they are more:

- 1. People- or Task-oriented.
- 2. Reserved or Active.

The resulting four styles are called:

D-style (Dominance)

I-style (Influence)

S-style (Steadiness)

C-style (Conscientiousness)

The DISC Behavioral Styles - The Key points:

In the following pages you will learn about the four DISC-styles. As you get comfortable with their own unique traits and tendencies, please keep the following important points in mind:

- None of the styles are better or worse.
- All styles have strengths and development areas. They just happen to be different.
- Your style does not limit what you can accomplish or how successful we can be. It simply predicts how you tend to do things.
- You can find all of the four styles represented by very successful people. However, the most successful people know who they are. They modify their style appropriately with different styles of people and in different situations.

Your Leadership Profiles

The Profiles are a visual representation of your behavioral style. They are based on your responses to the questionnaire. There are no right or wrong answers.

Profile I: Perceived Need to Adjust - Your adjusted style reflects an adjustment that you perceive would help you be successful in your current environment.

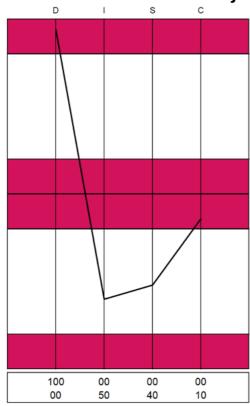

Profile II: Natural Style - Your natural style remains fairly stable, but not rigid, over your adult life. It is the style that is most comfortable to you and uses the least energy. Most individuals are a combination of styles.

The styles (D, I, S, and C) that are above the middle line (=top half of the Profile II) are your natural styles. The styles that show below the middle line means that they require more energy from you.

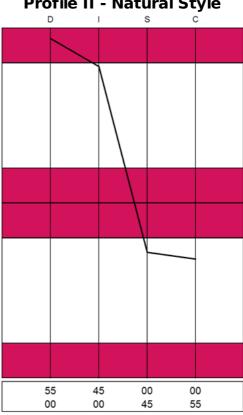

There are no good or bad behavioral styles - just different ones.

Your Profile I and II

Profile I - Perceived Need to Adjust

Profile II - Natural Style

Your DISC style is: DI (D - 55%, I - 45%)

Your DISC Style

The DISC Model is divided into four quadrants: D, I, S and C.

The rectangle identified in color shows the location of your natural style. Determine in what quadrant it is placed. This is your most natural and comfortable behavioral style (D, I, S or C). The shadings demonstrate the behavioral styles that are quite comfortable for you.

The DISC quadrant(s) that have shading represent your DISC comfort areas or your natural style.

The DISC quadrant(s) that have no shading represent DISC styles requiring more energy from you.

Suzanne at a Glance

This page is a description of how your employees and others are likely to perceive you. In other words, while the text describes your typical behavior as seen by others, you certainly can modify your behavior to fit the needs of a particular situation and/or individual(s). Also, you may have already addressed the development areas by learning new skills.

Your DISC style is: DI (D - 55%, I - 45%)

How Your Employees May Perceive You:

Decisive, goal-oriented, active, independent, active, restless, alert, extroverted, busy, social, inspiring, communicative, open, sociable.

How Your Employees May Perceive Your Communication Style:

Her relationships with other people are difficult to describe. She can be very nice, social, communicative and sociable - or she can be extremely tough, demanding, aggressive and overpractical. It always depends on her partner and how she expects to take advantage of that individual. Chatting is not her way to spend time.

How Your Employees May Perceive Your Decision-making:

She is ready to take risks and "dive into the unknown." She should be subject to a control- and follow-up system to prevent her taking unnecessary risks or getting off the original track.

Your Motivators

You tend to like and feel comfortable with these items. Are you taking advantage of comfort areas?

Suzanne is motivated by the chance to do independent work involving people. She gets motivation from clear, challenging goals that she can achieve her way. Variety in people, places and tasks also motivate her. She likes to work through people but that does not mean that Suzanne is a teamworker. This person is also motivated by popularity and social acceptance, publicity and success.

You are more likely to respond positively and feel energized if these factors are present in your work environment.

- Renewal, generating ideas
- Possibilities to win and achieve
- Freedom from restrictions and chains
- Opportunities to control and manage people
- Achieving results through people
- Varying and multifaceted situations
- Moving
- Meeting new people
- Possibilities for fast reaction
- Possibility to decide by herself
- Venturing into the unknown
- Deciding her own matters

Situations that Reduce Your Motivation

All of us face situations on a daily basis that we do not like much and tend to drain our energy levels. The items below are likely to decrease your motivation and require more energy from you.

- Being a bystander
- Detailed instructions
- Public failure
- Showing weaknesses
- Losing position
- · Boring and dull people
- Wavering
- Routine duties
- Waiting, standing in a line
- Chains, restrictions
- Being "at the tail-end of the group"

challenge in your current position.

Your Strengths

Strengths are items that tend to be easier, more natural and require less energy from you.

- Can keep people in line
- Motivates with independence and challenges
- Is clear enough
- · Can set the goals
- Can demand
- Dares to take risks
- Can generate new ideas
- Has willingness to change
- Wants to be the best
- Can keep the goals high enough
- Doesn't let jobs become routine
- Can generate new ideas

Most of us tend to overlook our strengths, even taking them for granted. Do not let that happen to you. Instead, consider the items listed above and think how well you are taking advantage of these valuable behavioral traits. Please use caution however; remember that an overused strength very often becomes a weakness and a serious liability to our performance.

How You Help Your Employees Achieve Their Goals

Interpreting the bar graphs is simple:

The rectangles to the right side of the graph identify how you prefer to help your employees. These items require very little energy.

The rectangles to the left side of the graph identify items requiring more energy from you. You CAN help your employees in this way, but these items are likely to require more energy and concentration.

How to Identify Others' Styles

Now that you have identified your own style, the next step is to identify the styles of others so that you may then make the most effective adjustments to yours. This is a skill that takes practice, but is easy to learn.

As you become more familiar with the DISC-styles, you will find some people are easy to identify. You will quickly think to yourself: "She is a D-style" or "He is an S-style." These individuals are predominantly one style and can be identified easily.

The rest of the people you encounter will take a little more effort. However, it is a simple, threestep process of identifying your prospect's style:

Step 1. Observe

Step 2. Assess

Step 3. Recognize

Step 1: Observe

When you meet someone, pay attention to traits such as:

- what the person talks about
- how they say it type of words (e.g. "I" vs. "We"), type of questions (e.g. "what?", "why?")
- body language
- tonality

You will discover that observing behaviors will become second nature. Soon you will observe behaviors without thinking.

EXTENDED

Step 2: Assess

Based on your observations, determine if the individual is more:

- Active
- Reserved

Task-orientation D

People-orientation

Reserved Individuals (S and C-styles):

Reserved

Talk about present and past and how things are now

Speak with a calm and fairly quiet voice

Tend to have hesitant eye-contact

If the person is Reserved, they are either S-style or C-style.

If the person is Active, they are either D-style or I-style.

Active

Active Individuals (D and I-styles):

Maintain strong eye-contact

Talk about future and how things could be Speak with a fairly loud voice and inflection Demonstrate body language that is animated and assertive

If the individual is Active, he/she is either D-style or I-style.

- Talk about future and how things could be
- Speak with a fairly loud voice and inflection
- Demonstrate body language that is animated and assertive
- Maintain strong eye-contact

If the individual is Reserved, he/she is either S-style or C-style.

D-styles

"I never worry about action, but only inaction."

- Winston Churchill

The D-style is the most aggressive and assertive of the four styles. D-styles tend to be quite competitive and results-oriented. As a result, you may identify D-styles as being quite aggressive, blunt and even rude. Under pressure they can appear to have a lack of concern for others. They do not want to lose control. D-styles want to be in charge and have the power.

D-styles prefer to move fast, take risks and get things done now. They like change and challenges. D-styles may also often want to create change.

D-styles can also be impatient and overbearing. They are often not very good listeners and are prone to make snap decisions.

Motto: I did it my way.

Focus: Actively controls tasks and things.

Under pressure - Lack of concern. This refers to D-styles' tendency to overlook how their actions and behaviors affect others.

Fear - Loss of control. This refers to D-styles' desire to be in charge. They do not want to give up control.

Favorite question: What? (What is the bottom line? What is in it for me?)

Communication Style:

- Often to only one direction he/she talks and expects others to listen
- Expresses own opinions as facts that need no further discussion
- May be blunt and challenges others
- Interrupts others often

Suzanne, when communicating with a D-style, remember to:

- Offer them other topics of discussion but let them decide what to talk about
- Create a friendship that they can control
- · Let them decide who talks
- Show that you are strong but you also respect their strength
- Maintain the same behavioral style with them all the time
- Let them believe that they control the meeting
- · Let them control what they want to know

Suzanne, what not to do with D-style:

- Never try to be better than they are
- Never offer them only one option let them decide
- Do not decide for them what they like and want
- Do not have the last word
- Do not try to sweet talk them
- Do not forget to express you highly admire their achievements
- Do not try to beat them

I-Styles

"Why fit in when you were born to stand out?"

- Dr. Seuss

I-styles are outgoing, social, and talkative, and like to be the center of attention. They like to interact with others and meet new people. They do not like to focus on details, or spend a lot of time by themselves. Others tend to perceive I-styles as very friendly, enthusiastic and animated.

I-styles are the influencing and interactive individuals who shake up their environment by bringing others into alliance with one another. They know what they want, align everyone together to get it done, and want everyone to like them as they move forward. Social acceptance is very important for I-styles – they like to be liked.

I-styles are talkative, sociable, optimistic and lively. They are people-oriented, spontaneous, energetic and enthusiastic. I-styles tend to be positive and good at influencing others.

I-styles can also be inattentive to details, overly talkative and emotional. They may over-promise because they are so optimistic and eager to be popular. Others may perceive I-styles as somewhat careless, impulsive and lacking follow-up.

Motto: "I am a nice person. Everyone should like me."

Focus: Actively involved with people and emotions.

Under pressure - Disorganized. I-styles have a tendency to focus so much on people that they may overlook details and tasks.

Fear - Social rejection. I-styles have a strong desire to be liked by others.

Favorite question: Who? (Who is going to be at the meeting? Who else is using this?)

Communication Style:

- Selling and inspiring
- Talks a lot, but not about details
- Avoids unpleasant subjects
- Good at providing positive, constructive feedback
- Not always direct

Suzanne, when communicating with an I-style, remember to:

- Make sure that you are not pushy
- Try to get them to talk
- Let them tell the best story
- Show that you are also interested in the topic and are not just trying to sell
- Be prepared to listen a lot
- Double-check what the propect's true needs are
- Talk briefly and clearly, offering them more opportunities to talk

Suzanne, what not to do with an I-style:

- Do not interrupt them if they get excited
- Do not control the discussion
- Do not progress faster than they are willing to
- Do not force them you must remain friends
- Do not get them enthusastic about something they will postpone later
- Do not talk when they would like to talk
- Do not try to control the meetings with them

S-Styles

"Nothing in this world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful people with talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb."

- Calvin Coolidge

S-styles are steady, calm and laid back. While they do like interaction with other people, they are more reserved and less animated than I-styles. S-styles prefer things to remain the same because changes and surprises threaten their sense of security. Family and friends tend to be very important to S-styles. They often defend their own group or team almost emotionally; fairness and justice are very important to S-styles.

S-styles are reliable and stable with an emphasis on cooperating with whoever is in charge to carry out the tasks. They say: "Tell me what, when and how you want it done and I'll be glad to do it." If you do not give me enough details, I won't get started because you might blame me if it gets done wrong."

Since S-styles prefer stability and security, they tend to resist change and need support with it. They want to know how the change will affect their lives. S-styles are also prone to be hesitant in their actions and decision-making. This is primarily caused by their desire to consider others and for everyone to get along.

Motto: If it's not broken, let's not fix it.

Focus: Involved with familiar people.

Under pressure - Too willing. S-styles' have a tendency to be accommodating and polite. Often they say "yes" too easily.

Fear - Loss of stability. S-styles have a desire to have a stable and secure environment. Change can be challenging for S-styles.

Favorite Question: How? (How are we going to do this? How does this impact us?)

Communication Style:

- Often only to one direction, he/she listens
- Answers when asked
- Talks calmly
- Creates trust
- Talks about topics he/she masters
- Better in one-to-one situations
- Good instructor

Suzanne Sample

Suzanne, when communicating with an S-style, remember to:

- Do not control or dominate the discussion
- Demonstrate that you are honestly trying to help them
- Progress step-by-step
- Do not pressure them into a decision or opinion
- Spend a lot of time building a relationship before starting to "sell"
- Do not patronize them even if they let you to
- · Use a modest tone of voice

Suzanne, what not to do with an S-style:

- Do not hide any information from them
- Do not force them to take action too soon
- Do not put yourself above them
- Do not talk about them to other clients without their permission
- Do not forget to cover every issue
- Do not force them to talk before they are ready
- Do not forget what they have said

C-Styles

"I have no special talent. I am only passionately curious."

- Albert Einstein

C-styles are the most analytical of the four behavioral styles. C-styles can be very detail-oriented, focusing on facts, information and proofs. They are comfortable working alone and are the most reserved of the four styles. C-styles are logical and methodical in their approach.

C-styles are cautious and compliant to their own high standards. Their emphasis is to work with the existing circumstances to ensure the quality of the product or service. C-styles make sure that everything works the way it should.

C-styles are sometimes too critical of others. They expect everyone to follow their standards. Their attention to detail and correctness can be perceived as nit-picky by others. C-styles' desire to do things correctly can also slow down their decision-making. They can over-analyze issues and need a lot of information.

Motto: "If we do not have time to do it right, do we have time to do it over again?" As a result, C-styles are good in ensuring quality control.

Focus: Analyzes tasks and things.

Under pressure - Overly critical. C-styles have a tendency to be so focused on the details that they often find mistakes and errors. The other styles may find C-styles too critical.

Fear - Criticism of work. C-styles want to be correct and to produce high-quality work. They do not want to make mistakes.

Favorite question: Why? (Why does is work this way? Why should we do it?)

Communication Style:

- Better in written communication
- Doesn't express disagreeing views
- Includes a lot of facts and details
- May miss the big picture
- Doesn't talk about opinions or abstract matters
- Extremely diplomatic

Suzanne Sample

Organization: Date:

Widgets Inc. 08.21.2013

Suzanne, when communicating with a C-style, remember to:

- Try to avoid exaggeration
- Do not force them to state their opinion
- Be careful not to force them into any type of action
- Set aside time proving the quality of your product/service
- Make promises, keep your promises, and commit them to counter-promises
- Be patient and let them go through everything carefully
- Be prepared to present all possible details but do not do it before they ask for them

Suzanne, what not to do with a C-style:

- Do not forget to ask what they consider important
- Avoid making an offer that forces them to respond
- Do not tell them when they need to decide
- Be modest and be careful not to appear arrogant
- Do not forget to cover the available support and guarantees
- Do not lead or manipulate them into situatons they could feel not safe and secure
- Do not suddenly ask them to make a decision
